Drug and Alcohol Testing (HLTPAT004 Collect Pathology Specimens Other Than Blood)

Overview:

Our Drug and Alcohol Testing training course is a nationally accredited course designed to train people in how to conduct drug and alcohol training. This course will enable learners to understand how to complete Drug and Alcohol testing in the workplace in a safe, legal and ethical manner.

It is a requirement for firms collecting urine or oral fluid samples who wish to meet Australian Standards to have their collectors trained as per the definition of collector under AS/NZS4308:2008 and AS4760:2006.

The structure of the course includes:

- Outline the responsibilities of a collector and the employee
- Detail best practice principles to ensure privacy and confidentiality
- Duty of care, provision of information, fairness, and gender and cultural sensitivity
- Plan & conduct appropriate testing activities
- Respectful communication about testing activities & outcomes
- Respond effectively to testing challenges including positive test results
- Providing testing in remote locations, dealing with refusal, or failure to undergo testing
- Outline notification and record keeping requirements for
- D&A testing
